A walk through some of the less visited limestone country. Interesting villages; Brassington has many remains of lead mining; Ballidon has an unusual old church and Bradbourne is a "doubly thankful" village. From Bradbourne, there is an attractive loop around

Haven Hill

Ref: D224B

Route includes three very different but interesting villages and passes some impressive rock formations (Rainster Rocks). The short section out of Ballidon is muddy but most of the route is on (mainly) decent footpaths, tracks or quiet roads. Medium grade but no steep climbs or descents.

Brassington car park is on outskirts of village but worth taking time to look around village which has a long tradition of lead mining. The many bell pits on the path out, bear witness to this. Two pubs.

Ballidon is just a hamlet that is now mainly known for the quarry. There is a constant stream of heavy lorries down the narrow road. The small church is well worth a visit.

Bradbourne is a "doubly thankful" village. Bradbourne is the only such village in Derbyshire and one of only 13 in all of England and Wales. It contains some impressive houses, including Bradbourne Hall.

D224B includes a southerly circuit around Haven Hill before picking up the basic route again at Park Farm (218 524).

Author's recommendation

Take a few minutes to look around Bradbourne village before re-joining route. The Hall is impressive.

Circular route

Turn-by-turn directions

From the car park head back west towards the village and RIGHT up Dale End and very soon sharp left down King's Hill; then fork right along Hillside. Take the footpath on the right heading uphill above the houses. Follow this path generally NW up through the old mining area until you reach the junction (226 546). Then take the track left and walk WSW until you reach Pasture Lane. Carry on westwards along the lane until you reach the bottom of the hill. Cross the B5056 and go through the gate opposite. Follow the track opposite up the hill (good views along the dale). Near the top of the hill, the path splits off the farm track. You can either follow the path west down towards Ballidon church or continue down along the farm track to Ballidon hamlet and Cow Close Farm. If the latter then you need to turn left along the road to the church (beware - many heavy lorries!). Go up to the church (worth a look) and then turn due south. This next section is very muddy!! Continue until you reach the B5056 again at 206 538. Pick up the path opposite a few metres to the right. Continue southwards to the left of the farm buildings. Cross a couple of fields to reach the right hand edge of a wood and follow path uphill until you reach Bradbourne churchyard, with the imposing Bradbourne Hall on your left. Exit on to the road. Here, you can decide whether or not to do the extra loop around Haven Hill (the extra loop adds 1.6 miles / 2.6 km to the route).

Follow road with stream on your right as far as Park Farm.

Instead of turning left out of the churchyard (shorter return route), turn right and proceed west along road for about a quarter of a mile until the houses end. Take the stile on the left. Ignore path on right and head SW towards a line of trees. Although not obvious, there is a gap in the trees. Go through and follow the track roughly parallel to the trees and the stream below. Continue down to valley bottom and cross river by small footbridge. Turn left and follow track SE up the valley for about 1 km until you reach a minor road. Turn left and reach Newhouse Farm. Continue up the road until it forks (213515). Ignore road to right and keep straight on along grassy track. Follow this roughly north until it descends, become a rough road. Cross a stream and reach Brackendale Lane. Turn right and follow lane with stream on your right until you reach Park Farm. You need a footpath on the left, just before the farm. If you reach the farm drive, you have gone too far. Follow the path north around Park Farm and then around Crowtrees Farm (bit of an obstacle course!). As you leave the farm, the path splits. Take the one that goes initially NE (not north up the hill!). Follow the path across fields until it eventually becomes Nether Lane. Follow the lane all the way back to Brassington. Cross the road and follow lane up through the village to reach Hillside again. Retrace steps to car park.
